Editorial Policy:

- P Appraisal seeks to develop and promote constructive ways of thinking, especially from within a personalist perspective, in philosophy and other intellectual disciplines.
- P Appraisal believes that philosophy should not be a narrow, academic and technical specialism, but should address itself to the general public and to the intellectual and practical issues of the present.
- P From time to time Appraisal will include Re-Appraisals, articles or collections of articles upon 20th C. thinkers whose work deserves to be more widely known.
- P Appraisal welcomes articles, exploratory 'working papers', discussion notes, and reviews of books.
- P Appraisal takes a particular, but by no means exclusive, interest in the work of Michael Polanyi.

Format:

- P The maximum length of articles is 10,000 words, although longer articles can be split into 2 parts for publication in successive issues. Shorter items (discussions, working papers, notes, etc.) are especially welcome.
- P All contributions should be in good, clear English, without jargon, and with end-notes and frequent sub-headings (at approx. every 700 wds).
- P Please see inside rear cover regarding references to the works of Michael Polanyi.
- P All contributions should be sent via e-mail or on disk.
- P Please ask for the Style Sheet or save or print it from our web site: www.spcps.org.uk.

In particular, please write or rewrite all end-notes (no footnotes) and their indices (superscript) as ordinary text; and please give in Abstract (no more than 100 words), and a list of Key Words.

The Editor has no secretarial assistance and ALL articles should be composed according to our standard paragraph styles.

Please send all communications regarding Appraisal (articles, subscriptions, etc.) to:

20 Ulverscroft Road, Loughborough, Leics. LE11 3PU, England.

Tel., fax and answer-phone: 01509 552743
